

ABSTRACT

An embodiment for a method for forming a self-passivated copper interconnect structure. An insulating layer is formed over a semiconductor structure. An opening is formed in the insulating layer. Next, we form a fill layer comprised of Cu and Ti over insulating layer. In a nitridation step, we nitridize the fill layer to form a self-passivation layer comprised of titanium nitride over the fill layer.